The Write Attitude

IS ALL ABOUT YOU!

Writing is everywhere...

Writing happens at home, online, at school, in public, in private, and at work. We write in groups, in partnerships, and as individuals. We write so many things: tweets, texts, posts, notes, e-mails, blogs, projects, essays, reports, plans, presentations, poems, stories, articles, books. Essentially, writing is an important means for discovering and expressing ourselves. It shapes who we are and how we are perceived by others.

... and Attitude is everything

Attitude affects the way you feel and think about something. If you have a positive attitude toward writing, it can help you to grow as student, employee, entrepreneur, and citizen. You need to write well to be successful in your personal, academic, and professional lives.

Get involved and participate!

- Apply to serve as a QEP Student Ambassador, Student Writing Fellow, or a Peer Writing Tutor.
- Attend our workshops to sharpen your writing skills. We have many series that focus on: Essay-Writing Improvement, Technical Writing, Academic Research and the Ethics of Writing, Grammar, Writing for the Disciplines, and Writing for the Professions.
- Enroll in our Graduate Academic Writing course (GRST 6101).
- Participate and network with local professionals in the Lunch and Learn "Real World Writing" Series.
- Submit to our writing contests and showcases to win prizes and present your work to a variety of audiences.
- Schedule tutoring sessions at the SSU Writing Center to get help with your academic essays, writing assignments, and résumés.
- Partner with us through your student organization to plan writing-related events, and get your classmates involved.
- Write articles, poems and essays to be published in The Write News, our newsletter.
